

EXHIBIT B

Photographer captures moment 'curious' squirrel stops to smell a flower

A photographer in Vienna, Austria captured the moment a small ground squirrel stopped to smell the flowers – in order, evidently, to find out which one would taste the best.

RARE TWO-HEADED RATTLESNAKE FOUND IN NEW JERSEY PROBABLY WOULDN'T SURVIVE IN THE WILD'

"I was really happy after capturing a photo like this," the photographer said. (SWNS)

Dick van Duijn, 34, from the Netherlands, told SWNS he spent two hours and took roughly 200 photos in order to capture the moment.

A ground squirrel smells a daisy in Vienna, Austria. (SWNS)

In the photos, the squirrel reaches for a yellow daisy, touching the flower to its face. Its eyes close as it seemingly inhales the floral scent. Moments later, the rodent leaned in for a tasty bite, said the photographer.

The squirrel was looking for the tastiest flower. (SWNS)

GREEN TURTLES ARE DYING BECAUSE THEY'RE EATING PLASTIC THAT LOOKS LIKE FOOD

"This curious ground squirrel started smelling and tasting the flowers," the photographer recalled. "I was really happy after capturing a photo like this."

"I went to Austria especially to photograph the ground squirrels," he added. "It was great to witness this, and very satisfying."

Get the full story at foxnews.com

SHARE

0 Comments Sort by: Oldest ▾

Add a comment

Facebook Comments Help

PREVIOUS STORY Jennifer Lopez explains why wedding plans with A-Rod are on hold for a while NEXT STORY Car crash kills Texas country singer Kylie Rae Harris, 30

RELATED POSTS

Before mass shooting, Texas gunman was on a long spiral down,' investigator says

Michigan candidate says city should be as white as possible

Craig Morgan finds God's purpose in song 3 years after son's tragic death

NEWSLETTER

First Name

Last Name

birthday

ZIP CODE

Email address

SIGN UP

FACEBOOK

Be the first of your friends to like this 